CCS hires Richard Field as COO, North America

CCS Cell Culture Service has named Richard Field as Chief Operating Officer, North America. Mr. Field is leading the North American operations and corporate development of CCS to ensure high quality sales, support, and operations for CCS's rapidly expanding client base. "We are proud to be serving many of the leading pharmaceutical and biotechnology companies in USA and Canada, and want to maintain the highest quality products, service and support our clients have come to enjoy", Richard Field is outlining his goal.

In previous rolls as Director Corporate Development and Regional CEO, Mr. Field has lead the growth of several multi-national life science and technology companies that quickly became industry success stories. He received his BS in Life Sciences from Cornell University, and his MBA in Finance and International Management from New York University.

CCS Cell Culture Service provides the custom generation of recombinant cell lines and supplies 'Frozen Instant Cells' and membrane preparations for cell based drug screening.
